St Andrew's Church

St. Andrew's Church is a spacious Victorian place of worship situated in the heart of Uxbridge. It boasts a robed choir, hosts civic services, and holds affiliation with the Royal School of Church Music. Additionally, the church is graced with a splendid and well-maintained organ.

Choir membership offers

Choir membership offers a wealth of benefits for all. Collaboration and teamwork are encouraged, providing opportunities to forge new friendships and develop social skills. Moreover, participants gain an extensive knowledge of musical repertoire spanning many centuries.

For children and younger persons the choir also provides:

- A free musical education with no financial burden
- Awards for personal achievement made internally and nationally
- Activities that promote enhanced concentration, confidence and academic attainment
- An opportunity to earn extra pocket money

Common Misconceptions

"I am unfamiliar with music or singing."

While prior experience of playing an instrument or singing is certainly an advantage, it is not essential. Many singers acquire and develop their skills through practical experience.

"I worry about not fitting in with my peers."

Remember to confidently communicate that you're engaging in a valuable and fulfilling pursuit. It's worth noting that a notable number of individuals in public life attribute their successful careers to their time as choristers.

"It demands too much of my time."

There is of course an expectation of regular attendance, but this is flexible. Individual circumstances are always considered and decided on a case-by-case basis.

"I do not think that singing is for me."

Come along and you might be pleasantly surprised!
